Supplier Delivery Terms:

Our primary objective in sourcing partners is to maintain control and ensure the highest quality products are distributed through our channels. Henry Schein’s quality management systems are aligned to FDA compliant practices ensuring proper monitoring for storage, transportation, and all necessary controls.

Rely on Henry Schein to be just on time, during busy weekend sporting events or for demanding clinical needs. Henry Schein’s 5 Mega Distribution Centers allows for greater control and stock efficiencies with 94% of customers serviced next day.

Henry Schein is the #1 healthcare partner of global logistics leader UPS. Through this partnership, we benefit from global logistics innovation, technology, and substantial reach in even the most remote areas.

Henry Schein has put in place various inspections/checkpoints throughout the process:
Receiving Inspection – Products received are not released to storage until they have been inspected.

In-Process Inspection – At defined stages of the process, the product is sampled and inspected.

Final Inspection – Products ready to be shipped are randomly verified to ensure accuracy.

Inspection Records – Records are established and maintained to provide evidence that the product has been accurately received.
